TALKS ON MISFIT JOBS.

Lecturer Explains How to Choose Life Work.

"Are you trying to make a living by your avocation instead of your vocation?" asked Dr. Louise Cutts Powell last night during her lecture on "How to Choose a Life Work."

"Are you running a locomotive when you ought to be a picket at the portals of the White House, or are you sewing shirts for soldiers when you ought to be swinging a pick?"

"Many people," said Dr. Powell, "are not working at the job that they like, and consequently are not getting the salary they think they ought to have. Parents ought to train their children at an early age to be fitted for the profession that best suits their adaptabilities."

RIDERS SCHOOL HUNTERS.

Stiff Competition Expected at Riding and Hunt Club Show.

A number of locally owned hunters are being schooled daily in the tan bark ring of the Riding and Hunt Club. Yesterday afternoon Miss Ruth Hitchcock, Miss Edythe Howard, Miss Elizabeth Scriven, Mrs. W. Sinclair Bowen, Thomas P. Morgan Jr., Maj. William Mitchell, Melvin C. Hazen, Thomas Bones and several others gave their respective mounts thoroughly satisfactory workouts.

The horse show committee met yesterday afternoon and was gratified by the reports of its members in regard to the interest and enthusiasm which is being displayed by both local and out-of-town exhibitors. Indications are that local horses will have some stiff competition from Virginia and Maryland.

DRYS PLAN TO FORCE VOTE ON PROHIBITION

Will Ask Special Rule Bringing Immediate Consideration.

Advocates of prohibition for the District last night asserted that if the dry tactics which the House District Committee appears to support in the consideration of the Sheppard bill continue, they will apply for a special rule to bring the bill before Congress for immediate consideration.

The opening skirmish in the fight to have Congress make Washington dry disclosed a majority of the committee opposed to limiting the discussion of the bill.

Representative Hilliard forced the first test vote on the bill by his motion to have the regular rules of the committee suspended and have continuous hearings daily until the opponents and proponents of the legislation have been heard.

Representative Burke, of Wisconsin, amended this by adding that such suspension of the regular procedure should not apply while the army and navy bills were under consideration by the House.

Representative Cary, of Wisconsin, moved to table the motion and amendment and his motion was carried by a vote of nine to seven.

The vote disclosed that Representative Tinkham, of Massachusetts, who has been considered on the side of the "drys," is among those opposed to prohibition for the District. His objection to the Sheppard bill lies in the fact that it fails to carry the referendum clause.

The discussion yesterday was brief. Representative Barkley explained the measure and declared that the merits of the question were so well known that the prohibition forces were willing to close the hearing after one day's discussion.

Charles J. Columbus, representing the Referendum Association of the District, declared there were twelve organizations anxious to be heard, and pleaded for extended hearings to give them the chance to voice their objections.

When the committee adjourned to meet today, announcement was made by Chairman Johnson that an executive meeting would proceed at the open hearing.

The vote on the Cary motion to continue the regular order of the committee was: For: Hammill, Lobeck, Burke, Dooling, Bailey, Wilson, Cary, Darrow and Gould. Against: Crosser, Vinson, Hilliard, Maper, Wheeler, Okunev and Johnson. Present: Lloyd paired with Tinkham.

At the age of 13 he passed his examinations at the Royal Conservatory by playing the Beethoven Concerto with orchestra, this being the occasion on which the celebrated virtuoso, David Popper, came on the stage after the first movement and kissed the abashed Eddy before an audience of 3,000 persons, declaring he had never heard the work played with such perfection since Chopin.

From Budapest, Eddy Brown went to London for a tour that proved extraordinarily successful, then to Holland, Finland and Russia. Then followed five continuous years of work under Leopold Auer, and finally the Berlin triumph which settled his status for all time to come. Eddy Brown's successes in Germany and England have been more than duplicated in America.

The students of George Washington University will have their largest social function Friday night when the annual freshman prom is held at the Raleigh Hotel.

Upper classmen as well as freshmen will attend, and President and Mrs. Charles Herbert Stockton, with the deans of the various departments and their wives, will chair the dance.

Arrangements are in the hands of a committee of the freshmen class presidents. Perry M. Johnson, chairman of the Student Council social committee, is supervising the details.

The committee last night paved the way to recall F. A. Connolly, who testified earlier in the hearing was the author of the telegram to Hutton & Co. which Essary and Roper have testified was written by Essary. Connolly probably will be severely grilled on this point. Attorney Sherman L. Whipple intimated last night that the committee would be closed with the examination of less than half a dozen additional witnesses and without the committee's return to New York.

NEW FIRE REGULATIONS.
Autos, Movies, Matches and Cigarettes Looked After.

In order to aid the prevention of fires the Commissioners have under consideration certain regulations relative to the control of storage facilities, the handling and manufacture of inflammable moving picture films, the storage and handling of matches and the reckless disposal of lighted cigar and cigarette stumps around inflammable objects.

The regulations provide that no automobile shall be stored in a building used for dwelling purposes unless the car is kept in a fireproof room. Permits will be necessary for the handling of the films, obtainable from the fire marshal.

HOT TEA BREAKS A COLD—TRY THIS

Get a small package of Hamburg Breast Tea, or as the German folks call it, "Hamburger Brust Tee," at any pharmacy. Take a teaspoonful of the tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a teacup full at any time. It is the most effective way to break a cold and cure grip, as it opens the pores, relieving congestion. Also loosens the bowels, thus breaking a cold at once.

It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore harmless.—Adv.

FAMILY ABANDONS HOME TO AID BOY VIRTUOSO

Eddy Brown's Career Shows Parents' Part in Genius.

EDDY BROWN.

That no young genius can arrive at full artistic stature without self-sacrificing care and supervision on the part of his parents, is the theory of a well-known musical authority, who cites history of many famous artists to prove his contention. One of the striking examples he adduces is the present day—long after his reputation has been firmly established—has been under the direct guidance of his mother.

Eddy Brown's father, who has made extraordinary sacrifices to advance his son's career, was a violin pupil of Jacobson. Eddy was 4 years old when his father gave him his first instruction. When 6 years old, he appeared in public. He continued his studies in Chicago until his tenth year, and then the family life was deliberately broken up in order that the boy might have the advantage of training abroad.

Mrs. Brown took Eddy to Budapest, where he became a pupil of the great Hubay, studying the first year with the master's assistant, Bloch, and then for two years with Hubay himself. At 11, he played the Mendelssohn Concerto. The same year in a contest free for all violinists he came out victor among forty contestants playing the Tschalkowsky Concerto, receiving a fine violin as a prize.

At the age of 13 he passed his examinations at the Royal Conservatory by playing the Beethoven Concerto with orchestra, this being the occasion on which the celebrated virtuoso, David Popper, came on the stage after the first movement and kissed the abashed Eddy before an audience of 3,000 persons, declaring he had never heard the work played with such perfection since Chopin.

From Budapest, Eddy Brown went to London for a tour that proved extraordinarily successful, then to Holland, Finland and Russia. Then followed five continuous years of work under Leopold Auer, and finally the Berlin triumph which settled his status for all time to come. Eddy Brown's successes in Germany and England have been more than duplicated in America.

CONCERT AT NATIONAL CHARMS BIG AUDIENCE

President's Wife and Guests Hear Philadelphia Orchestra.

The Philadelphia Orchestra, conducted by Leopold Stokowski, gave its forty-first concert yesterday afternoon at the National Theater before a large audience. Mme. Elena Gerhardt, the celebrated leader singer, was the soloist of the occasion. The program, one of the most pleasing of the season, was: Overture, "Manfred," Opus 115, Robert Schumann, "Die Allmacht," Franz Schubert, Symphony, No. 4, in A minor (Italian), Opus 90, by Felix Mendelssohn-Bartholdi, "Stille Still," "Traume," "Schmerzen," by Richard Wagner, Tone Poem, "Tod und Verklärung," Opus 24 by Richard Strauss.

The Italian Symphony was marvelously interpreted by the orchestra particularly the "Saitarello" movement which was executed faultlessly.

Perhaps the most interesting center of attraction was the playing of Richard Strauss' "Tone Poem," a wonderfully descriptive number of Ritter's "Death and Transfiguration."

Mme. Gerhardt's greatest hold upon the sympathies of her hearers is in her facile and unfailing address to the deeper feelings, and in her power to project a vibrant human sentiment that never loses its mark. Such was her case today as in her recital several weeks ago.

The group of Wagner songs she delivered with lovely tone, finished phrasing, and with preeminent distinction. She recalled several times after the Schubert number.

Mrs. Wilson entertained a number of guests in the Presidential box.

NATION WITHOUT MONEY TO BUY ARMY SUPPLIES

Must Wait Until New Appropriation Bill Is Passed.

Because there are no United States troops in action in the field, the government is powerless to procure reserve supplies for the army. This developed yesterday after Secretary of War Baker had given orders to the Quartermaster General to buy all possible extra stores that might be needed in the event of hostilities.

As the situation stands nothing can be done until the new army appropriation bill has been passed and signed. When this will be cannot be stated positively but action is expected to be swift. The reason no contracts can be let is that there already exists a deficit of $20,000,000, incurred through operations in Mexico, in the funds for the current year.

In the bill pending there is a regular estimate for reserve supplies of $3,900,000, to which has been added a supplemental $11,250,000 at the suggestion of the Secretary of War. Hence, when the appropriation bill is in effect more than $15,000,000 will be available for reserve supplies.

Despite lack of funds, however, the War Department yesterday let contracts for the following regular supplies as follows: Western Cartridge Company, Altam, Ill.—Fifty million rounds of rifle ammunition. Winchester Arms Company, New Haven, Conn.—Ten million rounds of rifle ammunition.

Mallory Munitions Company, Watertown, N. Y.—Five million rounds of pistol ammunition. Orders were issued by Brig. Gen. Crozier, Chief of the Ordnance Bureau, that the shipments be made with all possible haste.
